

A newsletter

*News for friends of anthroposophy and members of the Anthroposophical Mixed Society**

This newsletter has been translated digitally from the German

Volume 13, No. 24 December 3, 2023

*Administration/editing Roland Tüscher. The responsibility for the contributions lies with the authors. *ENB12/22 © All rights reserved.*

To the readers, authors, Letter to the editor...

One hundred years of new foundation (Christmas conference)

The next issue will be devoted to the impulses of the Christmas Conference of 1923. - The new foundation of the Anthroposophical Society initiated at that time was to lead into "completely new waters" (GA 260, p. 210 f.). -

What was meant by that? What was to be worked out, developed and achieved in the long term? What was actually achieved?

What is outdated today? What must or should be taken up again? What of the past is unrepeatable today? -

What are the acts of anthroposophy that actually overcome the forces of contemporary civilization that deny the spiritual and undermine the effectiveness of anthroposophy?

If you would like to tell us something about this, please write to us with your views by December 10.

*For the editorial team
Roland Tüscher*

INHALT

November 1923 - November 2023, To the Berlin Friends
Andreas Worel 1

The large and small domed rooms in the first Goetheanum
Regine Wolf 3

Review of Andreas Matner: The virus and its ego
Oliver Heint 6

The bibliography of the literature of the Michael Movement -
An initiative by Jens Göken 11

Letter to the editor about the interview with Georg Soldner
Margrethe Skou Larsen 13

Mammon, or how I got to know money

Jorin Charlton 14

November 1923 - November 2023

The Berlin friends

Man sees

With the world's eye;

He is bound by what he sees,

The joy and pain of the world;

It binds him to everything,

What will be there, but not less,

To everything that falls

Into the dark realms of the abyss.

Man looks

With the mind's eye;

He is bound by what he sees,

In spiritual hope and spiritual strength;

It binds him to everything,

What is rooted in eternity

And bears fruit for eternity.

But man can look

Only when the inner eye

Feel yourself as a member of the spirit of God,

The scene on the soul

In the temple of man and body

The deeds of the gods work.

It is humanity

In oblivion to the inner God,

But we want to take it

Into the bright light of consciousness,

And then carry over rubble and ashes

The flame of the gods in the heart of man.